International Business Administration

The International Business Administration programme is designed for people interested in economics and business who wish to acquire professional knowledge and skills to work in an international company or in the public sector. In addition to knowledge of economics and business, the programme also provides very good Business English language skills and an opportunity to specialize in marketing and communication or finance and accounting.

SPECIALIZATION IN:

Finance and Accounting Marketing and Communication

Two degrees from two universities – EBS and Lancaster University Management School (LUMS), plus experience from two countries - Estonia and the United Kingdom - will give you many advantages for your future career. You will spend the first two study years at EBS and another two years at LUMS in the UK. You will defend a bachelor's thesis and be awarded a double degree from both universities.

Languages and Business Administration

People with good foreign language skills are valued in all international organizations. Languages and Business Administration programme is an excellent combination of language studies and business. The programme is meant for people who would like to gain practical skills of foreign languages – it is possible to study 3 foreign languages at a time– and also have basic knowledge of economics and business administration.

Which comes first, sales or marketing? What does it depend on? What is the relationship between success and reputation? By specializing in Marketing and Communication at EBS, you will receive thorough and practical answers to those as well as many other questions.

A balanced focus on theory and practice will ensure that the bachelor students are able to apply the gained knowledge to their everyday work.
